VISUAL ART EDUCATION

LVA cultivates rising generations of creative leaders with quality instruction to more than 3,000 students annually through Children's Fine Art Classes (CFAC), in-school education programs, and summer camps.

louisvillevisualart.org/visual-art-edu

ARTIST ENGAGEMENT

LVA encourages and celebrates local artists with our weekly Artebella blog and radio show, Mural Art Program, annual Open Studio Weekend, weekly calls for submissions, and employment as teachers.

110 YEARS of ART FOR ALL

Founded in 1909, Louisville Visual Art (LVA) improves lives and inspires communities through exceptional art education, vital artist engagement, and uplifting art-centered outreach. From our Creative Hub in the Portland neighborhood, LVA nurtures Louisville's entire art ecosystem at its roots.

Why Hite? Here's some of the reasons we hear from our students and alums.

Best of both worlds: An art institute at a liberal arts university. Immerse yourself in art while exploring other disciplines that also interest you. The broader education makes you a more well-rounded individual and ultimately more employable after college.

Lots to do: At UofL you'll never be bored. In addition to a wide range of classes, there are student organizations, intramurals, and plenty of facilities to keep you busy on campus when you aren't in class.

Small class size: More opportunity to engage with instructors and learn. Studio foundations classes are limited to 20 students; 300 and 500-level classes average 12 to 15 students.

Breadth: 10 Studio Art or Design areas – Drawing, Painting, Photography, Printmaking, Ceramics, Fibers/Mixed Media, Glass, Sculpture, Communication Art & Design, Interior Design – plus Art History.

Depth: Studio majors work cross media or concentrate and take up to 30 hours in one studio/design area; we also offer more than 50 classes in five different areas of Art History.

Friends for life: Work closely with other students as focused on art as you are. Form lifetime friendships with a diverse group of peers. The collaborative classroom environment and supportive peer group makes time spent in class more enjoyable and everyone's work stronger.

Faculty as mentors: Work one-on-one with faculty who are professional artists and publishing art historians and gain both insight into the field and an idea of what to expect once you graduate.

Internships:

Many Hite students, especially in the design programs, participate in internships. This real world experience puts you a step ahead in the job market when you graduate.

Creative city:

Louisville, KY – a creative community that is extremely supportive of young emerging artists. Monthly Trolley Hops with gallery openings in the East Market/Downtown area, and the Frankfort Avenue area.

Visiting artists and lectures: We bring in visiting artists in various disciplines every semester – typically 10 to 12 a year. You'll learn about art beyond the classroom and attend workshops with artists who will challenge you and broaden your skills.

Facilities: The studio art program is located both on and off-campus. Schneider Hall houses foundations, drawing, painting, printmaking, photography, graphic design, fibers, and interior design. Sculpture and ceramics are in the HPES/Studio Arts Building and the glass program is housed off-campus in the Cressman Center for Visual Art in downtown Louisville. Studio space is available for BFA students. The art history program, together with the Visual Resources Center and the Print Collection, is on campus in Lutz Hall. Plus the Bridwell Art Library and our outstanding galleries – both invaluable resources – are also in Schneider Hall.

Flexibility: Present an idea and your professor works with you to make it happen. Faculty and staff are here to help you reach your professional goals.

Economical: With UofL's affordable tuition costs, chances are you won't be paying off enormous student loans for the next 10 years!

Scholarships and travel grants:

Departmental merit scholarships available in addition to other University-wide scholarships. Plus departmental travel grants for trips both in the U.S. and abroad.

Love sports? Plenty to cheer about!

We have nationally ranked teams – basketball, football, soccer, baseball, field hockey, and more...

POSSIBILITIES

Our attorneys believe in creating possibilities. That's why we passionately support Louisville Visual Art in their three-part mission:

1. To provide local youth in grades 4-12 with professional after-school art instruction.
2. To create self-esteem, team-building and sense of accomplishment for our at-risk populations, using art as therapy.
3. To support local and regional artists as they develop their skills into a profitable craft.
